About Town

And Country

By TIMOTHEUS T.

THE SHAWNEE HILLS Recreation Association has done a fine job in its goal to build this area into a tourist attraction, so that a tourist industry can be established, and from time to time figures have been given on how a substantial tourist industry can boost the economy of a region.

Over in Missouri the thing that the southeastern Illinois group has been trying to do is an established fact. That state already has a tourist industry that is phenomenal.

Wayne Gidcomb, president of the Saline county chapter of the SHRA, handed me a press clipping with a Jefferson City, Mo., dateline which started off by saying "The call of the great outdoors brought more visitors than ever to Missouri last year, and they boomed the tourist and park business to record levels."

The story estimated more than 12,000,000 tourists spent a record $327,700,000 in the state last year.

In Illinois, this part of the state's proportionate share of such an amount spent would be equal to an enormous payroll. Only rub is, the figure's for Missouri and not for Illinois—and we're far behind Missouri in development of our scenic attractions. We have 'em but for the most part they're lying there, unadvertised and with inadequate facilities.

That's what the Shawnee Hills Recreation association has been doing, advertising our scenic area and pushing proper persons to try to get better facilities.

SEEMS LIKE A LOT of robins have been spotted in the Harrisburg area this year already. A few weeks ago Ada Cole told me she had seen a robin, then Joe Tate said he had seen one. Then others.

But yesterday Richard Davenport told of seeing 50 or 60 together. Which is something. He said he was driving north on Route 34 and just before he got to the first bridge that many robins were feeding between the pavement and the water.

They definitely weren't starlings, Mr. Davenport said.

Extinguish Blaze In Truck Load Of Sweet Potatoes

The interior of a large trailer loaded with sweet potatoes caught fire at 9:15 a. m. today as the truck was coming into Harrisburg. Damage was undetermined until a check could be made.

The Harrisburg fire department was called to extinguish the fire.

Fire Chief L. G. Martin said the fire started when paper around the crated potatoes was ignited from a charcoal heater.

Edward Cox of Searcy, Ark., was transporting the load of potatoes from Louisiana to Pittsburgh, Pa., and noticed the fire at the Routes 45-34 intersection near Harrisburg. He drove to the Cornick Oil Co. station and called the fire department.

Inch and Half Snow Hits Harrisburg Area; Roads Slippery

An inch and a half of snow covered the ground in the Harrisburg area today following a snowfall which started late yesterday and continued into the night.

The snow was brought in by a strong wind. Driving conditions were hazardous last night and few cars were on the roads. This morning reports were that roads were slippery but that traffic was moving. State maintenance men had snowplows out early last night.

Harrison Kibler, who reported the snow measured one and a half inches, also said the combined rain and snow produced a total precipitation of .56 inch.

Rites Sunday at Carrier Mills for Mrs. Bartley Russell

The funeral of Mrs. Bartley (Julia Austin) Russell, 54, former resident of Carrier Mills who died in Hammond, Ind., Thursday, will be held in the Carrier Mills Baptist church at 2 p. m. Sunday. The Rev. Ernest Ammon will officiate and burial will be in the Salem cemetery. The body will lie in state at the Miller funeral home until time for the funeral and pallbearers will be Garfield Thomas, John Austin, Bob Austin, Arthur Ammon, Perry Austin and Lee Austin.

Worst Since 1951

11 Inches of Snow Hits St. Louis Area; Three Deaths Reported

ST. LOUIS (AP)—More than 11 inches of snow locked the St. Louis area in an icy grip today and kept traffic at a standstill.

Three deaths were reported during the storm, two of them on snow-covered highways. In St. Louis two elderly persons suffered fatal heart attacks while shoveling snow.

Workers leaving for home from the downtown area had to wait for an hour or more for a bus and many were as much as three hours late getting home from work.

The snow trailed off across southern Illinois with seven inches reported at Vandalia and four inches at Belleville. Roads in the southern half of the state were generally reported to be hazardous.

The storm was the worst to hit St. Louis since November 1951 when slightly more than a foot fell.

Traffic victims were: Charlotte Arlene Edwards, 25, Longdale, Calif., who was killed near Rolla on U. S. 66 when the car she was driving went out of control and overturned. A Kirkwood man, Charles Rapp, 63, who was killed on Mo. 21 when the car he was driving collided head-on with a truck driven by William Barfield, Piedmont. Highway patrolmen say Rapp's car apparently skidded out of control on the pavement and into the path of the truck.

There are thirteen members of the class.

The student nurses marched to their places in front row seats accompanied by graduate professional nurses and as the class was presented the student nurse and her accompanying graduate nurse proceeded to the platform for the actual capping ceremony. The class was presented by Mrs. Shirley Oshel, co-ordinator of nurses for the school.

The address of welcome was given by Eltis Henson principal of the Harrisburg Township high school and John Schork, vocal music director of the HTHS, sang a solo.

Following the capping ceremony Dr. W. D. Tuttle of the Harrisburg Medical Foundation welcomed the student nurses to the participating hospitals to continue their training.

Ethel Ewing R. N. gave the closing prayer.

The professional and receptional were by Paula Reynolds, HTHS student. She also accompanied Mr. Schork for his vocal solo.

Student nurses and their accompanying graduate professional nurses—Claudine Funkhouser and Helen Butler; Marie Hale and Bernice Latham; Edith Kilgour and Mabel Burton; Alice Lehman and Shirley Bittner; Ida Nolen and Annary Empson; Gladys C'Connor and Retta Odum;

Nona Spivey and Marion Bailie; Faye Stalions and Ethel Ewing; Ella May Thompson and Marion Humm; Belva Tucker and Helen Minor; Sibyl Winters and Fern Patton; Betty Arms and Connie Harkson; Ila Sue Ballard and Bette Damme.

St. Louis police identified the victims of heart attacks as Gustave Becker, 76, and Fred Mayer, 75.

Authorities in Kansas City said Archie Lee Jacobs, 50, died of a fractured skull when he fell from a ready-mix concrete truck during the storm.

The same storm center triggered a vicious, summer-like storm, laced with hail, across the southeastern states Friday night, and authorities at Farmville, Ga., estimated the storm ripped the roofs from 20 to 25 houses and strewn debris on power lines and into streets.

The Birmingham weather bureau warned of "one or two isolated" tornadoes in northeast Alabama and a twister was reported to have struck Anniston with minor damage. High winds demolished a home and damaged two others in Belgreen, Ala.

Temperatures danced up and down as a warm front followed the snow system and was in turn followed by a new cold snap. From Virginia to Florida and westward to Alabama, night time temperatures rose about 18 degrees in 24 hours. A cold front that dropped readings to about 10 in some parts of Iowa pushed southward into the lower Mississippi River Valley.

The Northwest had snow flurries, while the Southwest enjoyed stable temperatures of about 50.

Junior Hi Students To Baby Sit Free For Blood Donors

Students of the Harrisburg Junior high school, in their all-out efforts to aid the blood program in Saline county are volunteering free baby sitting service for Tuesday, Feb. 4, when the Bloodmobile visits Harrisburg.

It was announced Friday that any mother desiring to give blood during the time the Bloodmobile is in Harrisburg—1 p. m. to 6 p. m.—and needing someone to stay with small children may telephone the Junior high school and two girls will come and stay with the little ones.

Transportation also may be obtained by calling the Junior High school.

During this past week the Junior high school students have attempted to contact everyone in the Harrisburg area, either in person or by telephone, in the interest of the blood program.

Also a group of four presented a panel discussion over WEBQ Wednesday morning and Thursday another group presented a panel discussion before two assemblies at the Harrisburg Township high school.

FCC Members Deny Charges; Face Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Five members of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) today denied any wrongdoing as they prepared to defend themselves in public Monday against charges of "personal, official misconduct."

Rep. Morgan M. Moulder (D-Mo.), chairman of a House commerce subcommittee investigating federal regulatory agencies, said FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer and Commissioners Robert E. Lee, Richard A. Mack, Rosel H. Hyde and Robert T. Bartlett would be questioned under oath. They were accused in a secret report of accepting color television sets and other favors from the broadcasters they regulate.

Moulder said the accused commissioners had been informed by special messenger of the exact nature of the charges against them. He said Comptroller General Joseph Campbell had informed him the commissioners' actions, if proven, were "improper and in violation of the law."

Lee told reporters "I haven't done anything wrong." Hyde said he had nothing to say "other than I am satisfied my record is an honest one."

Bartlett, asked whether he had anything to say, replied: "Yes, plenty; but Monday."

Doerfer told newsmen the staff charges were "inaccurate and misleading."

Roads Slippery South of Taylorville

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The state Highway Division reported roads south of a line through Paris, Taylorville and Louisiana, Mo., were covered with snow and slippery as of 5 a. m. today.

North of this line, the division said, roads were generally clear except for widely scattered icy spots in the Quincy and Macomb areas.

Starkweather Now Says Girl Was Accomplice

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—A marathons murderer who boasted all along his series of 11 slayings was a one-man job now says his 14-year-old sweetheart was a willing accomplice.

Lancaster County Sheriff Merle Karnopp said Friday night that Charles Starkweather, 19, implicated Carl Fugate in the cross-country slaughter. The red-haired slayer reversed his earlier statement absolving the Fugate girl during a motorcade in which he was transferred from western Nebraska to Lincoln Friday afternoon, Karnopp said.

"He (Starkweather) said Carl went along with him willingly," Karnopp said, "and was his accomplice in the crimes."

Following their return to Lincoln, Starkweather was confined in the maximum security medical ward of the Nebraska state penitentiary. He was to undergo routine processing at the prison today.

His parents, who "plan to stick by Charlie, no matter what," planned to visit him today.

Carl, a frail eighth-grader who once wanted to be a nurse "to help people," made the trip to Lincoln in a separate car and was placed in the Lincoln State Hospital "because there's no place else in Lincoln to take a 14-year-old girl involved in a situation like this."

The killer's father, Guy Starkweather, an unemployed carpenter, held a brief conversation on the phone with his son Friday night. His son said authorities "treated me good" during the trip back to Nebraska where he confessed killing 10 of his 11 victims, the father said.

Referring to the funerals of some of his son's victims, the elder Starkweather said "the hearts of my wife and myself go out to those people. I would have liked to attend the funerals today (Friday), but I want everybody to know that, while it may sound funny, I want to stay by Charlie."

"They have my deepest sympathy — but that will probably be ignored, seeing as how I am standing by my boy."

Earlier, a minister who said the services over Mr. and Mrs. Marion Bartlett and their daughter, Betty Jean, 2, told the mourners, "Harsh as it may seem, it is logical to put most of the blame on the Starkweather family."

The Rev. George Kuhn said Starkweather's father "should have taken the boy to church and taught him respect for the soul of man... instead of taking him out and making him into a sharpshooter."

How to Listen For Signals from Explorer Satellite

By United Press

Here's how to listen for signals from America's Explorer satellite:

Tune in on a short wave radio to 108 or 108.03 megacycles. You should hear a steady tone, which has a slight frequency variation. It will not be a beep-beep sound like Russia's Sputniks.

If you don't hear the signal right away, tune in again about an hour later, since the satellite may be on the other side of the globe.

Satellite Will Strengthen U. S. In World Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Successful launching of an earth satellite should strengthen the United States' voice in world affairs.

It could move forward the time at which President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles would feel it desirable to have an East-West summit meeting with the Soviet Union. There is some evidence that the administration has been holding back in international affairs until a satellite was successfully launched.

Officials said the historic event will give the United States a new psychological and propaganda prestige in world affairs. But they did not overestimate the world impact of the event in view of Russia's previous achievements in the same field. And optimism was tempered by reports that the Soviet Union has or will fire a long-range missile, perhaps with a satellite weighing a ton.

Administration foreign policy makers, including Dulles, have felt that Moscow's keen interest in an early top-level East-West meeting was whetted by the Soviet success in launching Sputniks I and II.

All evidence pointed to the conclusion that the Russians were attempting to capitalize on the diplomatic front by their scientific successes.

Regardless of Moscow's lead in the earth satellite field, officials said the launching of the U. S. Explorer definitely would strengthen America's voice at any East-West peace talks and events leading up to such talks.

Army Jupiter-C Fires 32-Pounder In Orbit; Circles Globe Each 113 Minutes

WASHINGTON (AP)—America has joined the satellite age. An Army Jupiter-C rocket powered with a secret high energy fuel blasted a 32-pound instrument-packed satellite into a huge earth-circling orbit Friday night.

Today the American satellite—named "Explorer"—was spinning around the earth every 113 minutes. It was coursing out into space as much as 2,000 miles—more than a thousand miles farther out than Russia's biggest Sputnik. It was racing more than 18,000 miles an hour. It was expected to remain aloft for months.

Its first passage over the United States today was expected to be about 5 p. m. e.s.t., across the tip of Florida. It was sending back a steady radio signal—not a beep. President Releases News.

President Eisenhower at 1 a. m. made the dramatic announcement the free world had been waiting months to hear: The United States had placed an entry in the space race.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty at the President's weekend golf headquarters in Augusta, Ga., issued the statement for the President:

"Dr. J. Wallace Joyce, head of the International Geophysical Office of the National Science Foundation, has just informed me the United States has successfully placed a scientific earth satellite in orbit around the earth."

The President said all information received from the bullet-shaped moon "promptly will be made available to the scientific community of the world."

Rose in Crimson Flash

The 70-foot rocket carrying the satellite rose in a crimson flash from a launching pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 10:48 p. m. Friday night.

Then in a little more than two hours came the word from the President, and from scientists here: The satellite had circled the earth and was successfully in orbit.

Thus were erased months of anxiety in the free world.

The beginning of the orbit was placed at five seconds after 10:55 p. m. e.s.t.

The orbit is elliptical, ranging from 230 miles to more than 2,000 miles from the earth.

The satellite circles the world every 113 minutes by preliminary calculations, or about 13 times a day.

The orbit is near the middle of the earth — between 35 degrees north and south latitude. The American satellite will not cross Russia.

Nixon Speaks to Russians

In this country, the satellite will not go north of a line roughly from Santa Barbara, Calif., to Cape Hatteras, N. C.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon said the successful launching 15 minutes to go.

At 10:30 p. m., the President was told the rocket would go in about 15 minutes.

When the firing button was pushed at Canaveral, Eisenhower joined a three-way telephone hookup with Hagerty and Gen. Andrew J. Goodpastor, secretary at the White House. Goodpastor was receiving every 20 to 25 seconds, on an open telephone line from the Pentagon, reports on the progress of the rocket during its first few minutes of its flight.

"That's wonderful," Eisenhower said when it became apparent the rocket launching was successful.

Then, for two hours, there was little to do but wait.

A few minutes before 1 a. m. the word came from Washington—SUCCESS!

Items of Agricultural Interest

S.I.U. Country Column

By Albert Meyer
Animal scientists in agricultural institutions and experiment stations throughout the land do much experimental work with poultry.
A lot has been learned about breeding, feeding, and managing chickens, but the researchers still are busy looking for new and useful facts.
Because of breeding and selection, and through work in feeds and feeding, the poultryman today receives much higher egg production from his laying flock than did the flock owner of 10 or 15 years ago. If he produces meat-type birds, they grow faster on less feed, are more tender and tasty,
and look better in the meat shop
display case.
By way of illustration, consider some of the discussion at a recent district meeting of the Illinois Poultry Improvement Association at Southern Illinois University, a meeting attracting chiefly hatchery operators and feed dealers. Practically all the talks were concerned with reports on poultry research. Some of this study is of a basic nature that seeks facts

of no apparent immediate practical application. But it is a quest for information that may open the way for additional experimental work which has specific application to some phase of this business of producing more eggs or more poultry meat at less cost and more profit.

One speaker called attention to an experiment to see how good chicks are at choosing a balanced diet. The observation from this work is that the producer had better mix up the desired diet in a prepared starter feed if he wants to get the right kind of growth.
The researchers discovered that when the chicks are permitted to select their own diet, from the various ingredients used in any good present day starter feed, they don't do a very good job of selection.
They like ground yellow corn and do fairly well with 50 percent soybean meal used as a carrier for B12 antibiotic supplement. They fall down on the job of eating other balancing food materials they need.
Especially do they pass up alfalfa meal, a good ingredient—a fact bearing out the results of earlier basic research on the question of taste in chickens, which discovered that they do not like alfalfa flavor.

In the feeding study, experimenters found that the free-choice chickens grew only 64 percent as well as those that had no choice
and ate a balanced mash feed.
Neither was there good uniformity in weight at 28 days of age among the free-choice. There was little difference in the amount of feed consumed by the two groups of chicks, but the ones
which had no choice of ingredients had a 50 percent better record of feed conversion, which is weight gain per unit of feed consumed.

Hatcherymen found some interest in a study now underway at the SIU Poultry Center in which the objective is to find out how length of storage affects eggs used for hatching purposes. Scott Hinners, the project leader, reported substantiation for the idea that fresh eggs are best for hatching purposes. There is a steady decline in the percentage of eggs that will hatch as the length of storage increases. Few will hatch when eggs are put under incubation after they have been stored for more than two weeks. Nor do chicks from older eggs seem to grow as well as those from the fresher ones. Perhaps, he suggests, flock owners who produce eggs for hatcheries would do well to market
the eggs twice per week instead of only once.

Reject Oil Leases In Crab Orchard Lake Refuge Area

MARION, Ill. (AP)—The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has decided against permitting oil drilling leases
at its 40,000-acre Crab Orchard Lake Refuge near here.
Refuge Manager Eugene Crawford said the service advised him
the rejection was because oil drilling might interfere with the industrial and wildlife programs.
Permission for an oil test was recently asked at a Washington hearing.

Soil tests were made on more than 2.3 million acres of Illinois
farm land in 1956.

FARM EXPORTS AT RECORD HIGH—Exportation of farm products is big business and in fiscal 1957 the value of U. S. exports set a new high of 4.7 billion dollars. This represents the output of 60 million acres, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Exporting required financing, inland transportation, storage and ocean transportation for 36 million tons of cargo. Newschart above shows typical agricultural commodities and the vast amounts of them exported.

Farmers Not Required to Get Egg License

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—New regulations covering the sale of eggs in Illinois do not require farmers to obtain licenses before marketing their eggs. Agriculture Director Stillman J. Stanard pointed out today.

Stanard said there had been
"much confusion" concerning licensing of farmers because some producers may not fully understand the law. But farmers selling eggs produced on their farms are exempt from candling, labeling
and licensing provisions.

Retail stores—except those buying only from licensed dealers and selling only to consumers—must obtain a license from the state and comply with the various egg regulations.
However, Stanard said, retailers who do not want to assume the responsibility of candling and grading will prefer to do business only with licensed dealers. And, consequently some farmers may want to obtain licenses to protect their markets which may be done.

Farmers who do obtain licenses must have adequate facilities to comply with the law, which includes a provision that eggs be maintained at 60 degrees or less after they are candled, Stanard warned.

Prospect is for plenty of legume
and grass seed for 1958.

Closing Date for Cotton, Corn, Wheat Agreements Feb. 20

The closing date for filing cotton, corn and spring wheat acreage reserve agreements has been changed to February 20, 1958. Also agreements may not be withdrawn by producers after the new February 20 closing date. An agreement which has been filed may not be withdrawn by the farmer unless a written request to withdraw, filed by the farm operator, is received by the county committee not later than February 20.

Farmers who have not filed agreements will be eligible for consideration within limit of available
funds only if registered on Form 823 at the county office not later than February 20. Funds have been exhausted but producers desiring to place their corn under the acreage reserve should call at the office before February 20 and put their name on the waiting list pending additional funds proposed to be allocated, according to Edgar
V. Thompson, chairman, local ASC committee.

File Agreements Now Under Corn Acreage Reserve Program

Farmers interested in the 1958
Corn Acreage Reserve program are advised that agreements are currently being filed at the county ASC office, Edgar V. Thompson, chairman of the local ASC committee, states.

Sign-up on this particular program will continue until March

Mrs. Willard St. John

Rev. Holland of the Big Saline association brought the morning and evening messages to the Sulphur Springs church Sunday. He was substituting for Rev. Beggs, now a patient at the Ferrell hospital in Eldorado. Rev. Beggs is reported to be improving and hopeful of being in his pulpit next Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Holland, and Mrs.

recently returned from Florida
where she visited her son, Jim Aydelott, and family and her sis-

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Estes visited in the St. John home during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ferrell,

Aunt Minnie and Frank Hargrave.
Mr. and Mrs. Ersel Vinyard and served basis to the extent that funds for this program are or will

Some producers may have gotten the impression that they could de-

Thompson said. They should now realize that this may not be true,

Tips for Gardeners

Avoid Spring Rush in Selecting Plants

By H. R. Kemmerer
Landscape Gardening Specialist
University of Illinois

URBANA—If you have not yet selected your trees and shrubs for spring planting, do so now to avoid the spring rush.

Local nurseries are usually the best place to buy your plants. You can see the trees and shrubs actually growing, and not simply as pictures in a catalog. Plants carried by local nurseries are usually adapted to your locality. Nurserymen can help you make selections and can order plants for you that they don't have in stock.

Nursery catalogs are helpful in selecting trees and shrubs. But don't let attractive pictures and descriptions sell you plants you don't need. Thumb through several catalogs, because one nursery doesn't handle nearly all the available varieties. Ordering plants early will insure their arrival by spring.

Although cash-and-carry sales yards usually operate on a supermarket basis, they can fill advance
orders and you'll have your choice of available stock. A landscape nurseryman will consult with you on your plant needs. After you select the trees and shrubs you want, he will buy and plant them when warm weather arrives. If you wait until spring to consult him, though, the chances are he'll be too busy to spend much time
with you.

The size of trees and shrubs to buy depends mostly on how much money you want to spend. Seedlings and lining-out stock are the least expensive. But they should be planted in a nursery a year or so before being put in the landscape setting. Otherwise they'll be stepped on, choked by weeds or cut by the lawn mower.

Medium-sized trees are moderately priced and large enough to see when planted. Evergreens in this size are about two feet tall, shrubs three to four feet, and trees eight to ten feet tall. They will need several years' growth before they will complete the landscape setting.

Specimen plants are large and give the landscape a finished appearance immediately after they are planted. They are also the most expensive. And because it's so difficult to transplant large trees and shrubs, they require careful attention for at least a year after planting.

Your hand may be quick, but the picker is quicker.

President William E. Maloney and other union officials as living in the lap of luxury while their opponents were mysteriously murdered.

They were charged with padding union expense accounts to buy Cadillacs, trips, jewelry, goose livers and artichoke bottoms. One $9.40 item was for "parrot liquor to pour over a stuffed parrot."

Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the committee had some information in its files which it did not make public during the hearings which ended Friday.

He told reporters he believes the committee would vote to make the material available if it is properly requested by the Internal Revenue Service, local law enforcement agencies or the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee.

"The committee wants to cooperate," Kennedy said.

According to committee investigators, a good part of the money "milked" from dues-paying members never was entered on the income tax returns of the recipients. Kennedy said an agent from the revenue service attended the wind-up.

First U. S. Satellite Spinning Around Earth

Soviet attention, Nixon added: "The achievement... emphasizes the wisdom of President Eisenhower's proposal for the development of space exploration in the cause of peace rather than in the wastage of war."

Successful launching of the Explorer amounted to a personal triumph for Dr. Wernher von Braun, the German-born scientist who designed the rocket and had claimed the Army could have put up a satellite two years ago if the Defense Department had given a go-ahead.

Von Braun called successful launching the start of a "long-range program to conquer outer space."

Navy To Try Again

Dr. John P. Hagan, head of the Navy Vanguard program, who saw his first attempt to launch a tiny 3 1/4 pound test satellite blow up Dec. 6, said the Navy was preparing to try another shot. Informed sources said it could come in a day or so.

Friday night's launching with the four-stage Jupiter-C had been set to go since Wednesday. But 200 mile-an-hour winds of the jet stream in the stratosphere delayed it.

Dr. W. E. Gibson of the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory—which had a big part in the project—said the decision to try to launch the Explorer last Wednesday was made 70 days ago.

Gibson, who is chief of the lab's guidance system development, predicted the satellite would "stay up at least several months."

"We could have put up the satellite in October or November of 1956 if we had been given the go-ahead," he said. "We were championing it at the bit."

Chiefs Congratulate

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy and Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker sent their congratulations to the Explorer-shooting crew.

Dr. Ernst Stuhlinger, another German-born scientist who is chief of research at the Army's Huntsville, Ala., missile arsenal, pushed the buttons at Cape Canaveral that sent the Jupiter-C into the starry night.

First stage of the rocket was a Redstone ballistic missile powered by a 75,000-pound thrust rocket engine using a secret fuel. It actually turned out 78,000 pounds. The other stages were composed of solid-fuel rockets.

The Redstone contained extra-long fuel tanks to boost the assembly to a 200-mile altitude for the take-off into space, at 19,000 miles an hour—1,000 miles an hour faster than either of the two Russian Sputniks.

Radioing Back Data
Containing much of the same equipment designed for the Navy's 20-pound spherical Vanguard, the Explorer's instruments immediately began radioing back temperatures and cosmic dust erosion and data on rays.

The Defense Department said the more powerful of the two radio transmitters would last only two to three weeks. The other is expected to transmit its mixture of "dissonant" notes for two to three months. Both are powered by mercury batteries.

The Explorer took its place in space about four months after Russia sent up an 184-pound satellite on Oct. 4 to open the age of space.

Sputnik I burned out in the atmosphere about Jan. 4. Sputnik II started spinning around the globe Nov. 3, carrying a dog which has since died. Including the dog it weighs 1,118 pounds. This Sputnik is still going.

ORIENTAL—A tiny parasol is just the right topper for this new swimsuit worn by Marcia Valibus at Miami Beach, Fla. It's made of oriental brocade, with handmade lace beedeking the high mandarin collar and side slits.

SIU Research Bureaus Receive Trustee Approval

ALTON, Ill. — Southern Illinois University research bureaus in business, education and public affairs were approved here this week by Southern's Board of Trustees.

Purpose of the bureaus, to be activated July 1, is to make available the University's fact finding facilities to agencies such as the public schools, municipalities, business organizations and the state and federal governments.

The Business Research Bureau will be an agency of the SIU School of Business, the Educational Research Bureau an agency of the College of Education, and the Public Affairs Research Bureau an agency of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

As approved by the Board, each bureau will concern itself only with making available for use by the general public the results of completed investigations. The bureaus would not interfere with organized and individual research projects being carried on by staff members. Research for which reimbursement is made might at times be undertaken for outside agencies.

Each bureau will be headed by a faculty member who will serve on a part-time basis, drawing upon the findings of the faculty members of the college or school he represents and not requiring a separate staff.

As examples of research activities frequently made available by Southern, President D. W. Morris said the College of Education has made surveys for a number of public schools concerning such matters as finance, staffing, enrollments, and building programs. The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, through its Government Department, has provided advice and has issued publications on local government. The School of Business has cooperated with businessmen in the area in locating information of use to them and has periodically issued a Business Bulletin.

Two Names for U. S. Satellite

WASHINGTON (U)—The first United States earth satellite has two names.

The Defense Department named it "Explorer."

The National Academy of Sciences and the National Science Foundation said the "official scientific" name would be "1958 Alpha."

Dr. Richard W. Porter, chairman of the U. S. earth satellite program, said the scientists' name followed "international astronomical usage." He said it would be forwarded to the world committee for the International Geophysical Year in Brussels, Belgium.

"Alpha" is the first letter in the Greek alphabet. "Alpha 1958" means this is the first satellite any country has launched this year.

The next satellite, by whomsoever launched, will be 1958 Beta, the next 1958 Gamma, and so on thru the Greek alphabet as far as necessary.

Lloyd Morev to Teach at SIU as Visiting Professor

ALTON, Ill. — Lloyd Morev, former state auditor and com proller and president of the Uni versity of Illinois, will teach at Southern Illinois University dur ing the spring quarter as visit ing professor in the School of Business.

Joining the SIU faculty for the same period will be Francis Robert Aumann, formerly professor at Ohio State University and a widely known writer and teacher in the field of government.

The board also named Clark Lee Allen of North Carolina State College as professor of econom ics. He has taught at Duke, Northwestern, Florida State and Texas A & M. A native of Cam eron, Mo., Allen received his bac elor's degree from McKendree College and his master's from Washington University before go ing to Duke to complete his doc toral studies.

He is one of a team of seven famed race drivers visiting the nation's schools. He will illustrate his talk with a racing film, a flannel-board dem onstration and with selections from his own racing experience, compar ing race track situations to high way driving. He will, upon request, give student cars a safety inspec tion, advising on detection of func tional defects that could lead to traffic accidents.

The National Safety Council Pub lic Interest Award for Exceptional Service to Safety has been pre sented to the Champion Spark Plug company of Toledo, Ohio for de veloping and maintaining this high way safety program in public schools. Educational, civic and law enforcement officials who have ob served the impact of the safety lec tures and films upon assembled students have given it unqualified written endorsement, citing the program for its objective, construc

'Privileges of Church Membership'

I Peter 2:9-10; II Corinthians
9:6-8; Galatians 6:1-5; Hebrews
4:14-15; 10:23-25

INTRODUCTION — There are many privileges which go along with church membership. However, we need to understand what a church member really is. It is more than having one's name added to the church roll. There are many persons whose names appear on the church roll who are not really church members. Church membership, in the strictest sense, is only for those who are Christians.

What is a Christian? It is one who has been saved, or "born again." God gives the only way one can be saved in Ephesians 2:8-10. We are saved "by the grace of God through faith." It is those who have confessed their sins to God and placed their faith in Jesus Christ, God's only begotten Son, who are eligible for church membership. When they have done this, they are entitled to the privileges of church membership.

I A PECULIAR PEOPLE
(I Peter 2:9-10)

God says that Christians are "a peculiar people." They are the one He has "called out" and "set apart" from the world. Christian people are of a kingly priesthood and have a special standing in the sight of God. They love to serve God daily, and they want always to live for Him. If you call yourself a Christian, and have not these desires, you had better re-examine your salvation experience. Jesus says that in the great Judgment Day "many will say 'Lord, Lord,' but I will say unto them, 'depart from me ye worker of iniquity, I never did know you!'"

II A CHEERFUL GIVER
(II Cor. 9:6-8)

When one is really a Christian, He loves nothing better than to give. He counts giving a privilege. This word "cheerful" literally means, "hilarious." One Bible scholar says that this means that during the time an offering is being received that the Christian feels like shouting: "hallelujah, here comes the offering plates, and now I can give my offering to God!"

Of course, there are many other things for a Christian to give cheerfully such as his time and talents. The true Christian gives himself to Christ in service. He counts it a real privilege to do so.

III BEARING BURDENS (Gal. 6:1-5)

When a Christian sees another fall into temptation and sin, he is to give that one his assistance. He is to "restore" that one. When you hear someone gossiping about another person, who has fallen in sin, you can put it down that he (or she) is not a Christian. It is one great privilege of Christians to lift up the fallen and restore them when they have repented.

We are to help the brother in need. However, we are not to expect others to help us. There are people who are professional beggars. They go from city to city expecting others to help them. When someone helps you in time of need, be thankful; but do not get into the habit of expecting help from others. This will lead you to become a social parasite.

IV HOLDING FAST (Heb. 10:23-25)

Jesus holds fast to those who trust Him. God sees to it that these followers are never separated from His love. (Romans 8:38-39). Here He tells his followers to "hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering."

We are told that as we pray our High Priests are interceding for us. When he was here on earth, he was "tempted like as we are tempted." He knows our needs and is interceding daily for us.

CONCLUSION—We are admonished to: "Not forsake the assembling of ourselves together."

Beyond the timber line rises sheer rock, towering above the clouds themselves. Looking at this great giant of nature we marvel at God's creations... and are aware of the comparative insignificance of man.

Yet, man is far from insignificant, save in physical size. For God, after all, made man in His image. And He gave man a brain, and a soul, with a sense of right and wrong. He gave him character and responsibility.

It is man who can progress to heights far greater than this mountain. But he needs help to do it—God's help, through the help of the Church.

You weren't meant to stand alone in this world. Remember that... and go to Church this Sunday.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Every Christian counts it a privilege to be present in worship services whenever physically possible. We can set a good example by "holding fast the profession of our faith." There is no place in service for "wavering" Christians. Church membership offers many wonderful privileges to those who truly know Christ as Savior. If you know him as your Savior, you will be in church services every time you are physically able.
